

Peter Findlay's adventures in woodworking span over 40 years, of furniture design, engineering, and teaching, in the furniture industry and at Conestoga College. His leisure activities include: wood carving, and furniture making. He was the Folk Artist-in-Residence at the Joseph Schneider Haus in 1995. A walnut gun cabinet designed and built by Peter, can be seen at the boyhood home of Mackenzie King. In 2001 he completed a quarter scale model of a 1931 Chrysler Imperial, using 14 species of wood. Collecting and using antique woodworking tools adds to his fun of working with wood.
